

The Portal Tv By yara

One hot lovely summers day, Keri was sat begrudgingly watching tv when she was suppose to be writing her 500 word essay. "Keri darling I'am just popping to the shopping mall for an hour to buy and try some shoes on." Mum was crazy about shoes she would always pop to the shopping mall just to look at them she had about 50 pairs of them. "By the way do not press channel 68!" Mum was always nagging Keri for years and years now not to press channel 68. But Keri was alone in the house by herself with the remot. She glanced at the remot then at the essay then glanced back at the remot. Just that moment she picked the remot and pressed channel 68.

All of a sudden a dark purple shade approached through the tv. Blinding light shone right through she touched the tv her hand went through. The blinding light faded and a gust of wind blew. Keri felt nausea she stumbled. She felt the wind blowing her side to side she took a step forward evrey thing stoped. Taking another step she got sucked in. Aaaaaaa she was gone.